

1) B

2) Supervised learning trains a model on labeled data where the correct output is already known. Example: spam email classification with labeled spam and not-spam messages.